From the Watchman of the South

RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE. It is an interesting question, whether, new there are any persons sanctified from the womb? If the communication of grace ever took place at so early a period of human existence, there is no reason why it should not now sometimes occur. God says to Jeremiah, "Before I formed thee in the belly, I knew thee, and before thou camest out of the womb, I sanctified thee." And of John the Baptist, Gabriel said to Zacharias, his father, "And he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, even from his mother's womb." The prophet Samuel also, seems to have feared the Lord from his earliest childhood. And in later times, cases have often occured, in which eminently pious persons could not remember the time when they did not love the Saviour and experience godly sorrow for their sins. And as we believe that infants may be the subjects of regeneration, and cannot be saved without it, why may it not be the fact that some who are regenerated live to mature age? I know, indeed, that many conceive, that infants are naturally free from moral pollution, and of course need no regeneration; but this opinion is diametrically opposite to the doctrine of Scripture, and inconsistent with the acknowledged fact, that as soon as they are capable of moral action all do go astray, and sin against God. If children were not depraved, they would be naturally inclined to love God, and delight in his holy law; but the reverse is true. -Perhaps one reason why so few are regenerated at this early age is lest some should adout the opinion, that grace came by nature, or that man was not corrupt from his birth. Some have opposed the idea that any are sanctified from their birth, for fear that moralists and those religiously educated, shou d indulge the hope that they were born of God, although they have experienced no particular change, in any part of their lives, as far back as memory reaches. But allowing that some may properly make this use of the doctrine, it only proves that a sound doctrine may be abused. All the doctrines of grace have been thus abused, to comfort themselves with the notion that all get on, the better; the better for our they are regenerated in early infancy; for piety in a child will be manifest as in an an adult, as soon as such a child come to the if a man cheats you, to quit dealing with exercise of reason; and in some respects, more so, because there are so few young children who are pious; and because they have more simplicity of character, and are he is, or how he misuses you, the wisest much less liable to play the hypocrite than persons of mature age. More decency of external behaviour, with a freedom from gross sins, is no evidence of regeneration; meet with .- [Selected.] for these things may be found in many whose spirit is proud and self righteous, and entirely opposite to the religion of Christ : of a religious education, and good example, rise and spread of this evil spirit in our capture there are found none of the internal land. Associations are formed at thir efactor, and of Christ as its Saviour, who of truth and all goodness. shed his blood and laid down his life for us, It is awful to compare the professed ig-en the cross, it would be piously affected norance, of there being any God, or what with these truths, and would give manifest kind of God, avowed by these infidels, with God, and would be conscientious in the discharge of secret duties. A truly pious given or acquired by man, it is not essencial would be an affectionate and obedient tial to his well-being or happiness. So speak from that galery and volatility which is ed, by the commingling of pious thoughts be plucked as brands from the burning! and affections with those which naturally flow from the infant mind. When such children are called, in Providence, to leave the world, then commonly, their piety breaks out into a flome, and these young saints, under the influence of divine grace are enabled so to speak of their love to Christ and confidence in him, as astonishes, while it puts to shame aged Christians. Many examples of this kind we have on record, where the evidence of genuine pirty was as atrong, as it well could be. There is a peculiar sweetness, as well as tenderness, in these early buddings of grace. In short, the exercises of grace are the same in a child as in an adult, only modified by the peculiarities in the character and knowledge children in knowledge and understanding, and require the same indulgence, in our judgments of them, as children in years. To those who cannot fix any commence. ment of their pious exercises, but who possess every other evidence of a change of heart, I would say, be not discouraged on this account, but rather be thankful that you have been placed under the tender care of the great Shepherd, and have thus been testrained from committing many sine, to which your nature, as well as that of others was inclined. The habitual evidences of piety are the same, at whatever period the work commenced. If you possess these. you are safe; and early piety is probably more steady and consistent, when matured by age, than than that of later origin, though the change of course cannot be so evident to yourselves or others.

The education of children should proceed on the principle that they are in an unreenerate state, until evidences of piety clearly appear, in which case, they should be sedulously cherished and nurtured .-These are Christ's lambs-"little ones, who believe in him" whom none should offend or mislead upon the peril of a terrible punishment. But though the religious education of children should proceed on the ground that they are destitute of grace, it ought ever to be used as a means of grace. Every lesson, therefore, should be accompanied with the lifting up of the heart of the instructor, to God for a blessing on the means .--Sanctify them through thy truth; thy word A. A.

QUARRELS. One of the most easy, the most common, most perfectly foolish things in the world is to quarrel, no matter with whom, man woman or child; or upon what pretence, provocation, or occasion whatever. There is no kind of necessity in it, no manner of use in it, and no species or degree of benefit to be gained by it; and yet, strange as the fact may be, theologians quarrel, and poli ticians lawyers, doctors, and princes quarrel, the Church quarrels, and the State quarrels; nations and tribes, and corporations, men, women, and children, dogs and cuts, birds and beasts, quarrel about all manner of things, and on all manner of oc. casions. If there is any thing in the world that will make a man feel bad, except ertions spared to give general satisfaction to pinching his fingers in the crack of the door, | Passengers. t is unquestionably a quarrel. > Rev. E. Bickersteth. REDNESS OF EYES.

Dr. Orphey of Dublin declares that intemperance on wine is worse than intemperance on any other article. Blindness, partial or total, is found to a most alarming extent, in wine growing countries. Medical men attribute it to the use of wine. France and lusly furnish illustrations of this remark. This will readily be credited by those, who have been accustomed to the redness of eyes among the cider topers of New England.

Great addition to the Editorial Department MRS. LYDIA H. SIGOURNEY,

Whose name is so intimately connected with the Literature of our Country and who has justly been termed by the contemporary press The Hemans of America. Will assist Mrs. Hale in the editorial department. It is with feelings of the greatest pleasure that the publisher of the Book makes this announcement. The editorial corps willnow consist of MRS. SARAH J. HALE, MRS. LYDIA H. SIGOURNEY AND LOUIS A. GODEY. Mrs. Sigourney will commence her valua-

INCREASE OF SUBSCRIPTION. In 1838 we published 10,000 copies, during the months of Jan. Feb. and March 1839. we iccreased the list to 13,500. and had then to reprint three numbers and increase to 15.000. With the next volume we advanced to 17,000 and we now print 25,000 copies monthly, Probably the greatest monthly list of subscribers in the world.

Our reading matter is about the same in quantity as any similar production, probably little in favor of the Book. It would be foolish and false to say hat it contains more and the proprietor is not willing to condescend to such means for any supposed advancement of his interest.

One advantage the subscribers of this work will have, is its early reception. It will be received at the remotes: Cities of the Union by the 1st, day of the month of publication.
